

Villes-sur-Auzon

This charming village will be our home base for the tour. Of the village's old fortifications, only the Grand Portal remains, dating from the 18th century and forming one of the modern-day entrances to the center. The ramparts have been replaced by a row of terraced houses which give Ville-sur-Auzon its circular layout. It's easy to fall under the spell of its small shops and labyrinth of streets, its fountains and large plane trees, which lend the place a genuine Roman feel. Enjoy the local market here on Wednesday and get to know our little villages restaurants, cafés and shops.
